

Introduction

The study of household expenditure and income (household budget) was initiated in the year 1314 by the National Bank of Iran. The primary objective of this early study was to determine the consumption coefficients necessary for calculating the living expenditure index.

Following a significant gap, the Economic Studies Office of the National Bank of Iran resumed data collection in this area in the year 1338. This involved interviewing sample households across 23 cities in the country, with the aim of revising the weighting of the living expenditure index. Subsequently, in the year 1344, the Central Bank of I. R. Iran began conducting regular studies on the income and expenditure of urban households.

Starting in the year 1347, the Statistical Centre of Iran (SCI) launched a more extensive survey focusing on household expenditure in urban areas. By the year 1353, this survey expanded to include both the expenditure and income of urban households, and it has continued annually up to the present day, with the exceptions of the years 1355, 1357, and 1360. The results of this ongoing survey are processed and published each year.

Regarding rural households, the initial survey of their expenditure and income was conducted by the General Department of Public Statistics in the year 1342. With the establishment of the SCI in the year 1344, this survey was continued and broadened in scope by the newly formed organization.

Currently, statistics on urban households' expenditure and income are released by both the Central Bank and the SCI, while those on rural households are released only by the SCI. This chapter presents the statistics on the average annual food and non-food expenditures of urban and rural households by expenditure deciles, household size, and the average annual income of these households by income sources, based on the results of the SCI's (sample) surveys. These surveys were conducted according to the recommendations of the United Nations (NHSCP¹ and SNA² publications). The sample survey is carried out by visiting sample households in urban and rural areas.

Definitions and concepts

Household consumption expenditure: This represents the Rial value of goods and services utilized by the household for their own consumption or given as gifts to others. These goods and services are obtained through various means, including purchase, household production, in exchange for services, trading activities, and received free of charge from organizations.

Household gross expenditure: This includes the rial value from the sale of second-hand goods.

Household net expenditure: Whenever the value of the second-hand goods sold is deducted from the value of the similar goods purchased in the statistical period, the amount left over will be the household net expenditure of the goods concerned.

Household, urban and rural areas: see Chapter 3, "Population" Definitions and concepts.

Expenditure deciles: They are the amounts of expenditures (net/gross) that divide the surveyed households into 10 equal parts in terms of the expenditures (net/gross). Accordingly, $(10 \times i)$ percent of the surveyed households have spendings less than the i th tenth of the expenditures (net / gross), ($i = 1$ and... and 10).

Household income: This refers to all the sums and rial value of goods and services received by the household members for the job done or capital invested or from other resources (retirement pension, assets income, transitional receipts, etc.). In this survey, various net incomes are as follows:

Net income from wage and salary earnings in the public sector: This refers to the income of all the wage and salary earners of the household members working in the public sector including their continuous and non-continuous monetary and non-monetary receipts after tax deduction and retirement contribution.

Net income from wage and salary earnings in the cooperative sector: This refers to the income of all wages and salaries earners of the household members working in the cooperative sector including their continuous and non-continuous monetary and non-monetary receipts after tax deduction and retirement contribution.

Net income from wage and salary earnings in the private sector: This refers to the income of all wage and salary earners of the household members working in the private sector, including their continuous and non-continuous monetary and non-monetary receipts after tax deduction and retirement contribution..

Agricultural self-employment income: This refers to the income of household members as employers or own-account workers in the agricultural sector, calculated after deducting job-related costs. The agricultural self-employment net income includes earnings minus paid wages and salaries, primary material charges, non-durable tools, depreciation (amortization), other production charges, and job-related taxes.

Non-agricultural self-employment income: This refers to the income of household members who work as employers or own-account workers in the non-agricultural self-employment sector. It is calculated by deducting job costs from the total income, resulting in the net income from non-agricultural self-employment.

1 .National Household Survey Capability Programme.

2 .System Of National Accounts, 2008.

Miscellaneous income: This includes all amounts and the monetary value of goods and services received by the household through means other than employment of its members. Examples of such income sources include retirement pensions, severance payments (golden handshake), earnings from assets, subsidies, and similar sources.

Selected information

In the year 1402, the average annual net expenditure of an urban household was more than 2065.3 million rials, including over 1550.5 million rials for non-food expenditures (75.1 percent) and 514.8 million rials (24.9 percent) for food and tobacco expenditures. This amount increased by 50.6 percent compared to the previous year.

In the year 1402, out of the 1550.5 million rials for average annual urban household net non-food expenditure, the highest and lowest shares go to housing expenditure with 875.6 million rials (56.5 percent) and recreation, entertainment, and cultural services with 32.4 million rials (2.1 percent), respectively.

Furthermore, in the same year, out of 514.8 million rials for annual urban household food and tobacco expenditures, the highest and lowest shares were for meat, with 127.2 million rials (24.7 percent), and for spices, seasonings, and pickles, with 18.1 million rials (3.5 percent), respectively.

In the year 1402, the average annual net expenditure of rural households amounted to 1106.6 million rials, which included 668.9 million rials for non-food expenditures (60.4 percent) and 437.7 million rials (39.6 percent) for food and tobacco expenditures, reflecting an increase of 40.3 percent compared to the previous year.

In the year 1402, out of 668.9 million rials for the average net non-food expenditure of a rural household, housing expenditure accounted for the highest proportion at 238.9 million rials (35.7 percent), while recreation, entertainment, and cultural services expenditure represented the lowest proportion at 14.4 million rials (2.2 percent). Additionally, out of 437.7 million rials for the average net food and tobacco expenditure of a rural household, meat had the highest share at 106.0 million rials (24.2 percent), while spices, seasonings, and pickles had the lowest share at 14.8 million rials (3.4 percent) among the expenditure items.

In the year 1402, the average annual income of an urban household was approximately 2569.4 million rials. Among the income sources, miscellaneous incomes, totaling 1369.4 million rials (53.3 percent), accounted for the largest share.

Additionally, in the year 1402, the average annual income of a rural household reached about 1492.9 million rials. Among the income sources, miscellaneous incomes, amounting to 604.3 million rials (40.5 percent), represented the largest share.
